Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Monday 24 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cool and showery for many.

This Evening and Tonight:
Heavy showers across England and Wales slowly dying out. Patchy rain across Scotland and Northern Ireland moving southwards into northern England and north Wales. Clear spells in between, and turning chilly.

Tuesday:
Patchy rain in the north and east will be replaced by sunny spells and heavy showers. Fewer showers elsewhere, though rain will affect parts of the southwest later. Remaining cool.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Some showers followed by a weak rain band Thursday and Friday. However mostly dry, partly sunny and light winds for most with temperatures returning to normal, possibly warm by Thursday.
